

Wilmington Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Wilmington, N. C., November 19.—Wednesday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church, the wedding of Miss Margarette Murchison Holladay and Hal W. Worth, the latter of Fayetteville. It was a brilliant affair, and was witnessed by a large gathering. The bride was escorted to the altar by her sister, Mrs. Emmett Polk Crow, her maid of honor, who gave her away, and the groom was accompanied by his best man and brother, Thomas Worth, of Durham. The bridesmaids were Misses Kate Horner, of Oxford, Annie Murchison Sembron, of Fayetteville, and the groomsmen were Alex Worth, of Chapel Hill, also a brother of the groom's, and the bridesmaid, Miss Teta Murchison Ruffin Halliker, of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McAllister, of Fayetteville; Mrs. A. C. McAllister, and Miss Mary McAllister, of Durham; Mrs. A. H. Worth, also of Asheville, mother of the groom; Mrs. Charles Hunkamp, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Hannah, of Charlotte Courthouse, Va.

The wedding of Miss Daisy Lippitt Burbank, daughter of Dr. Thomas E. Burbank, and Eugene Quince LeGrand was another event of interest. This wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 6 o'clock at St. James Episcopal Church, Rev. W. H. Milton, D. D., the pastor, performing the ceremony. The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Miss DeLamar Burbank, and the groom's best man was Mr. William Vetter. The groomsmen were Thomas F. Wood, Clarence J. LeGrand, John Meyers and Bernard O'Neil. The only other members of the bride's party were the bride's father, who escorted her to the altar, and her sister, little Miss Rosalie Burbank, who acted as flower girl.

Tuesday night the L'Agile German Club gave its November dance in honor of the bride's party. The two weddings, and also complimentary to a number of young people who have come from away to attend the marriage next Tuesday night of Miss Lillian Keady and Raynard H. Wood, two prominent young society people. The dance was led by Thomas F. Wood.

Thursday night the Epworth League of Trinity Methodist Church presented a delightful entertainment, being a melange of music and recitations. Last night a big spectacular amateur musical performance, entitled "The Spielgartenfest," was presented under the auspices of the Ministering Circle of the Kings Daughters, and was repeated at matinee and night performance to-day. It was a brilliant, artistic and financial success, and between four and five hundred children and young men and young women took part. It was given as a benefit for what is called the district nurse fund, and a big sum of money was realized.

Durham Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Durham, N. C., November 19.—One of the largest card parties of the season was that at which Mrs. George Nash entertained on Friday afternoon, in honor of Miss Cole, of Raleigh; Mrs. Everett and Miss Everett and Mrs. Morrison, of Rockingham, and Miss Lusk, of Staunton. The reception floor was used, and all the apartments were beautifully decorated with quantities of autumn blossoms and foliage, and with the lovely gowns of the guests made an ideal autumn picture of rare loveliness.

The As-We-Like-It Club, composed of a bevy of school girls, was delightfully entertained by Miss Madeline Knight on Saturday afternoon. Miss Eleanor Erwin was elected a new member, making the club's number of members. The other members are Miss Louise Currin, Miss Nannie Green, Miss

NEVER ANY ITCHING

After One Application of Poslam, the New Skin Remedy.

Whenever eczema is present on body, it is the first demand is for something to stop the continual itching. This Poslam does with the first application.

In trying the sample of poslam—washed in water to any one upon request by the Emergency Laboratories, 22 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City—it is new to use it on a small surface and compare in the morning with the surrounding skin not so treated. Its quick work in clearing the complexion (overnight), removing pimples, undue redness, rashes, eruptions, etc., unless poslam has been used the skin has to rid itself of a skin affection have not been employed. Poslam has done the work of other remedies, all forms of itch, etc., where relief could not be obtained by other means. Poslam is sold in two sizes (trial, 50 cents; regular jars, $2) by all druggists, particularly Tragle's.

Annie Cobb, Miss Sarah Wall, Miss Mattie Toms, Miss Gladys Gorman, Miss Rose Bryan, Miss Lois Smith, Miss Nannie Bet Wright, Miss Lucy Gatliff.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tufts, of Pinehurst, were in the city this week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Lyon. They made the trip through the country in an automobile. Mr. Tufts was looking for the roads and is much interested in the capital-to-capital route, and never loses an opportunity to help along the good work.

The Halcyon Literary Club was charmingly entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. M. K. Boyd, at her home near Park. The program was unusually interesting one, and was thoroughly enjoyed by every present. The refreshments were served.

Mrs. J. Ed. Stager has gone to Mount Vernon, N. Y., to spend several weeks with Mrs. E. Williamson, of New York, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. J. Griswold, in the city.

The Sewing Circle Club of the Guesses were the guests of Mrs. A. M. R. G. on Tuesday afternoon. After a pleasant hour of work refreshments were served.

A delightful and pretty function on Wednesday afternoon was the bridge party at which Mrs. E. G. Curran entertained a number of friends. The pretty Colonial home on West Street was very attractively decorated with autumn foliage and plants. The tables were arranged in the living-room and library, and an elegant luncheon was served after the game.

General and Mrs. J. S. Carr have gone on a visit to Philadelphia, after which they will go to Kansas City to visit their daughter, Mrs. W. F. Patton, and Mrs. H. C. Flower.

The Round-About Club was entertained by Mrs. F. L. Fuller on Friday afternoon. The club was enjoyed by the members of the club and a few invited guests, after which a luncheon of several courses was beautifully served.

Williamsburg Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Williamsburg, Va., November 19.—The Rev. E. Ruffin Jones was in Franklin this week attending the Episcopal Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hillman, of Wise county, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burns. Mr. Hillman is superintendent of the Wise schools. He will return home next week, while Mrs. Hillman will remain here some time.

Dr. C. H. Davis left yesterday for Roanoke to attend the State Baptist Convention as delegate from the Williamsburg church.

Dr. Lawrence Gatewood, of the medical staff of the Central State Hospital, spent a few days here this week with his brother, Dr. Gatewood, who is ill at the home of his parents.

Miss Bettie Bowls, of Richmond, has been the guest of Mrs. W. G. Farinholt, at Toano.

Mrs. W. G. Jones and Misses Beale Scott and Jetta Thorpe spent Wednesday in Newport News.

Mrs. Annie Bowman, of Montgomery, Ala., is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. M. F. Morris.

Miss Rosa Emory has returned from a two weeks' visit to friends and relatives in Richmond.

Mrs. Cyrus Boisseau, of Richmond, is here on a visit to her sister, Mrs. G. H. Hanks.

Miss Elizabeth Galt spent several days in Norfolk this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hawes, of Richmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Tazewell Taylor, of Norfolk, spent Sunday in Williamsburg, attending services at the Bruton Parish Church. Both Mrs. Hawes and Mrs. Taylor are former Williamsburg people, having spent much of their girlhood in this city.

West Point Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
West Point, Va., November 19.—Fidelity Council, J. O. U. A. M., of West Point, will raise the "Stars and Stripes" over the schoolhouse at Romancoke next Tuesday afternoon.

John B. Stansbury, of Walkerton, contemplates moving to West Point in the near future.

Mrs. S. K. Ringling, of Westminster, Md., has just arrived to visit her daughter, Mrs. Roger Gregory Brooks. After her visit here she will go to Clio, S. C., to visit her mother and sisters, Mesdames Huntley and Hamer.

Mrs. H. W. B. Williams and children are visiting relatives here at the Colonial Beach on the Potomac River.

The Shackelfords Lodge of Masons, No. 30, at Centreville, had a meeting and an enjoyable time on Wednesday. A Julian Bagby, master of West Point Lodge, No. 233, and William H. Bell, district deputy grand master of District No. 19, who also lives at West Point, were in attendance.

S. A. Landis, a successful farmer in lower King William, not far from West Point, is going to leave this section to go North, to be near his only daughter, who is a trained nurse.

Mesdames W. S. Eastwood and W. R. Broadus were the delegates from the local missionary societies who attended the Woman's Missionary Mission, auxiliary to the Baptist General Association of Virginia, which met in Culpeper from the 10th to the 14th of November, in annual session. They report a fine meeting in every respect, especially the magnificent entertainment in the homes of the people.

Mrs. Boyd Hudson and son, Page, of Westmoreland county, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Bland, Rev. Boyd Hudson was the pastor of the Methodist Church for four years, having been moved over to a new field.

Mrs. L. W. Courtney, of Mundy Point

Buena Vista Social News

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Buena Vista, Va., November 19.—The union Thanksgiving services will be held this year in the Church of the Brethren, and the sermon will be preached by Dr. David Bush, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Invitations have been issued for the Thanksgiving dinner, which will be held in the opera house, on the evening of this 25th Sunday morning. Invitations have been issued, and the dance will be the event of the season.

The V. M. I. football game at Lexington on last Saturday afternoon was very much enlivened by the presence of the entire student body of the Southern Seminary. A number of people from the city were also present.

A revival meeting has been in progress at the Methodist Church for the past two weeks, and it has been well attended, and the services have been very interesting.

A. O. and J. O. Burks, Colonel E. J. Jones, Dr. Weller, R. S. Walker and L. N. Burks left Sunday morning for a two weeks' hunting trip, at Mr. Burks's farm in Bedford county.

Miss Laura L. Norwood, who has been the guest of Mrs. Josephine Robey, left for her home in Lenoir, N. C. Tuesday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Robey, who will spend the winter with her.

H. R. Mills was a visitor in Lynchburg Friday.

The young women of the Baptist Church held an over supper Saturday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. J. Johnson and Miss Kozella Johnson, of Unversville, spent several days in the city.

Miss May Maxwell, who has been spending some time at her home in Staunton, returned to the seminary Wednesday.

Mrs. R. B. Embree, who has been the guest of Mrs. E. L. Embree, returned to her home in Bristol this week.

Miss Josephine Caldwell attended the annual dance at Augusta Military Academy, Fort Defiance, on Monday night.

Mrs. Sol Wine, of Luray, is the guest of her father, John Dillon, at Mossy Creek.

Misses Julia and Rosa McCorkle were visitors in Staunton this week.

Charles M. Robinson, the architect, was here this week conferring with the Methodists in regard to the new church.

Kemper Yancey, football coach for Hampden-Sidney College, visited his mother here this week, before returning to the University of Virginia.

Miss Elsie Hiner, of Monterey, is the guest of Mrs. Ezra Lowman, of Dayton.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Harris were in Washington this week.

Payne and O. Jones attended the aviation meet in Baltimore.

Richard Liggett, who recently returned from Europe, is visiting Mrs. Winfield in Brookwood this week.

Miss Mary Jarman, of Elkton, visited in the home of C. G. Harnsberger this week.

Miss Laura Shumate, of Hagerstown, Md., arrived here this week to attend the funeral of her father, Edward J. Shumate.

John B. Burke visited his uncle, Robert Burke, this week in Edinburg.

Miss Elizabeth Petross, of Danville, is the guest of Miss Marguerite Manor, on South Main Street.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Weldon, N. C., November 19.—Miss Nellie Lewis, of Jackson, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gooch this week.

Invitations have been received by friends here to the wedding of Miss Minnie Greenough Burgwyn to Dr. William Thomas Mason Long at the Church of the Saviour, in Jackson, December 6.

The cornerstone of the handsome new Methodist Episcopal Church here will be laid on Thanksgiving Day. The beautiful memorial windows have been put in and the church will be ready for services on December 18. The church was erected at a cost of $20,000 for the building only. Furniture and fixtures cost $5,000. The ground upon which the church stands, cost $5,000.

Among Halifax county people in Richmond this week to see "Ben Hur" were Dr. and Mrs. O. S. Harrison, Mrs. C. G. McGarigan, Miss Sadiebell McGarigan, Miss Mabel Curtis, Mrs. P. N. Stinback, Mrs. E. G. Rowe, and Mrs. W. M. Cohen and others.

Miss Helen Pope has returned home from a visit to friends at Halifax and Enfield.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gooch, Mrs. Kate T. Benedict and Mrs. C. S. Hawkins spent the past week at Old Point Comfort.

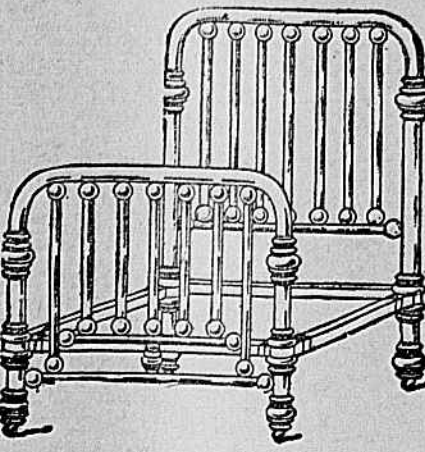

Mrs. B. F. Arrington, of Enfield, visited relatives here this week.

A Panorama of Furniture and Furnishings

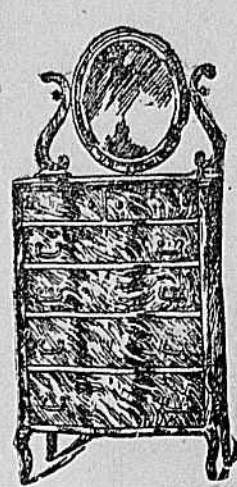

That is what the vast assortment really means at this great store. Not merely a good Furniture stock, but a great panorama of the newest, most practical and most artistic ideas in the furniture building industry. A glance through our immense store will prove to you that our prices are the lowest ever quoted on Fine Furniture, Stoves, Ranges, Rugs, Carpets, and, in fact, on every article needed to furnish your home.

Reading ads. alone will not convince you. Nothing short of a visit will suffice. SO COME THIS WEEK, SURE, AND SEE OUR OFFERINGS. Get acquainted with our credit system, our quality Furniture and our prices.

$17.50 Buys this High-Grade $30.00 Continuous Post Brass Bed.

Cannot be excelled in design, construction, material or finish. The massive posts and top rails are two inches in diameter. It is a very popular Brass Bed at a big saving in price, strikingly attractive and graceful in outline, selected with a view to combining strength and solidity with handsome appearance.

$19.75 Buys this $27.00 Solid Quarter Sawed Oak Chiffonier.

An exact match to the Dresser, and a big value at the price. Has six drawers, fancy pattern shaped French bevel plate mirror. Generously good throughout.

$22.50 Buys this Magnificent $30.00 Solid Quarter Sawed Oak Dresser.

Full swell front, genuine French shaped front legs with carved feet. Extra large mirror is French bevel plate, supported by shapely designed mirror frame. Construction and finish strictly high-grade throughout.

Boone Kitchen Cabinet.—The work of the kitchen, rightly understood and properly done, is the most important part of the entire household. The Boone Kitchen Cabinet is a kitchen in itself; reduces the labor of cooking, produces sanitary and economical results and permits you to have everything in compact, convenient and orderly arrangement. Prices range from $15.00 to $35.00.

Carpets and Rugs

Our large collection and diversified assortment embraces Rugs as fine and handsome as ever came over a loom. In the assortment are patterns and colorings that will never become monotonous. We ask you for your own satisfaction to come and observe the difference between bare assertions and statements of FACTS.

69c

Buys this Solid Oak Chair with carved top panel and wide shaped hand-woven cane seat. Strong and substantially built, it is an exceptional bargain at the price we ask, equal in value to similar chairs generally sold at $1.25.

Pettit and Company

FOUSHEE-BROAD STS

THE ART OF BEING AN IDEAL HUSBAND OR WIFE

By EMILE FAGUET, Member of the French Academy.

Married life has many enemies, but these are far from being invincible. Some are almost imaginary, others exist only for a short time, others again are mere conventionalities which a person need not mind, or can even afford to smile at, still others, though quite real, are merely accidents of civilization or of city life and do not affect all mankind nor over a single nation.

We must fight these enemies, oppose them with stoicism and pride. We must tell ourselves that it is an honor to be married, a patent of nobility to be the father of a family. Nobody will contradict, for every one knows it is twenty, no longer suits him when he is thirty-five.

If one looks away from the moral side of the question, one is tempted to ask if nature and reason do not destine a man to several successive unions according to a formula like this: At the age of twenty-two he should marry a young girl older than himself, who should be his intellectual and moral superior, and who shall guide him through the trials of the adolescent—ambition, hatred, self-contempt and passions of all kinds. Later her love of him should change into a maternal affection, and she shall not only allow him, but even demand, that he, when he is thirty, shall enter into a new marriage with a very young girl, whose education he will have undertaken. Marriage is then a necessary institution between the ages of twenty and thirty, but it is only useful between thirty and forty.

Putting aside the moral feature, this way of reasoning would be very good, if there were no children; but Nietzsche never thinks of the children. It is very true that in the twenty years of a young man needs to be guided, while at thirty he wants to be the one who guides. But it is not necessary that the young man of the same age. On the other side, the young man of thirty-five surely wants to be the protector and guide, but he will naturally be that to his child, who will then be from eight to fourteen years old, and there will be no necessity of a marriage to a young girl of twenty. The children give the parents a chance to exercise their protecting, authoritative and judicial tendencies.

If the man of thirty-five had no children, then I admit that he would instinctively look for a young girl to educate and mold according to his own ideas and desires, but if he has children this desire does not come.

"Do not believe with the novels that one must be wife to be a mother," I say. "A woman must be mother to be a wife."

Obsessed by this idea of conjugal satiety, or rather by the pretended impossibility of finding a woman able to satisfy the various intellectual, moral and physical needs of her husband, Nietzsche proposes to temper marriage by a solely physical concubinage.

He says: "A good wife and a good friend, helpmate, mother and governess, cannot at the same time be a concubine; that would be asking too much. We may, therefore, concede, see the opposite of what happened at Athens in the days of old, when the husbands whose wives were little more than concubines, or rather to have a real home, to see your children grow up and look at them as Angellier writes in a very pretty verse:

"Sur cet orgueil des jour ne' du bonheur deus nait."

It is very true, however, as Nietzsche said a little rudely, that married life has its difficulties, that more than kindness and good intentions are needed, that to be happy, though married, is an art. It is an art to be a good husband or wife, as it is an art to be a good father or mother.

The interior energy in all marriages is satisfied. It is probably nothing new, but I am telling Nietzsche, who, like Rousseau, looks at everything from the viewpoint of the happiness of the husband, and who demands nothing but concessions and sacrifices from the wife, says very aptly that a man really needs several wives, and that the is twenty, no longer suits him when he is thirty-five.

"If one looks away from the moral side of the question, one is tempted to ask if nature and reason do not destine a man to several successive unions according to a formula like this: At the age of twenty-two he should marry a young girl older than himself, who should be his intellectual and moral superior, and who shall guide him through the trials of the adolescent—ambition, hatred, self-contempt and passions of all kinds. Later her love of him should change into a maternal affection, and she shall not only allow him, but even demand, that he, when he is thirty, shall enter into a new marriage with a very young girl, whose education he will have undertaken. Marriage is then a necessary institution between the ages of twenty and thirty, but it is only useful between thirty and forty.

Putting aside the moral feature, this way of reasoning would be very good, if there were no children; but Nietzsche never thinks of the children. It is very true that in the twenty years of a young man needs to be guided, while at thirty he wants to be the one who guides. But it is not necessary that the young man of the same age. On the other side, the young man of thirty-five surely wants to be the protector and guide, but he will naturally be that to his child, who will then be from eight to fourteen years old, and there will be no necessity of a marriage to a young girl of twenty. The children give the parents a chance to exercise their protecting, authoritative and judicial tendencies.

If the man of thirty-five had no children, then I admit that he would instinctively look for a young girl to educate and mold according to his own ideas and desires, but if he has children this desire does not come.

"Do not believe with the novels that one must be wife to be a mother," I say. "A woman must be mother to be a wife."

Obsessed by this idea of conjugal satiety, or rather by the pretended impossibility of finding a woman able to satisfy the various intellectual, moral and physical needs of her husband, Nietzsche proposes to temper marriage by a solely physical concubinage.

He says: "A good wife and a good friend, helpmate, mother and governess, cannot at the same time be a concubine; that would be asking too much. We may, therefore, concede, see the opposite of what happened at Athens in the days of old, when the husbands whose wives were little more than concubines, or rather mothers of their children, turned to the Aspasias because they inspired them and elevated their minds."

Here again Nietzsche is wrong, for he shows that he is absolutely ignorant of the abilities of women. Without going to the other extreme, as did Goethe when he said, "The hand that handles a broom every weekday is the one that knows best how to caress on Sundays," we are certainly true that a woman may very well at the same time be mistress of her house, mother of her children, intellectual and carnal friends. What Nietzsche exaggerates is the needs of a man in this latter direction.

Nietzsche further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

This is true beyond any doubt. It is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

is this being continually together, two naturally autonomous and independent beings that makes marriage an abnormal and often painful state. For this reason the husband should have a profession that keeps him away from home at least one-third of the time; it is for this reason that Nietzsche's further epigrammatically states: "Would be more happy marriages, if married people did not live together."

$1.00 for this pair of shoes. This is a pair of shoes that will last you for years. It is made of the best leather and is very comfortable to wear. It is a pair of shoes that you will want to wear every day.

$1.00 for this pair of shoes. This is a pair of shoes that will last you for years. It is made of the best leather and is very comfortable to wear. It is a pair of shoes that you will want to wear every day.

$1.00 for this pair of shoes. This is a pair of shoes that will last you for years. It is made of the best leather and is very comfortable to wear. It is a pair of shoes that you will want to wear every day.

$1.00 for this pair of shoes. This is a pair of shoes that will last you for years. It is made of the best leather and is very comfortable to wear. It is a pair of shoes that you will want to wear every day.

Anderson's

Are Offering a Special in

Portieres $5 Pair

Mercedized Tapestries in solid colors of red, green and brown.

There isn't a better value in Richmond than these Portieres.

Other splendid values up to $25.00.

Bear in mind that we are specialists in

Carpets and Rugs

If you haven't seen Anderson's collection of Floor Coverings you've missed something worth looking at and worth buying.

Tapestry Brussels Rugs, 9x12 feet, for $15, are among the big values in this stock.

All the latest novelties in

Lace Curtains

George W. Anderson & Sons,

215 East Broad Street.

It's right if it came from Anderson's.

It's right if it came from Anderson's.

It's right if it came from Anderson's.

ARE YOU A BELL TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBER?

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY OF VIRGINIA

To Telephone a Telegram to the Western Union, Say: "TELEGRAM"

If you wish to transmit a telegram to the Western Union Office by Bell Telephone simply say "TELEGRAM."

The operator will connect you with the proper Western Union Bell Telephone. Thus you may dictate your telegram and save yourself the inconvenience of waiting for a messenger.

For the convenience of the public this new method is now in effect in all cities in which the Southern Bell Telephone Company operates.